RVENING CRITIC PUBLICATION COMPANY WASHINGTON, D. C.

Entered at the Post Office in Washington as Wednesday, October 26, 1881.

An old man in the Post-office Department, aged 82, has married a young lady of 45. It is understood the parents were willing.

KENTUCKY SEEMS bent on mending her manners. Prosecution is threatened in Louisville to the men who amused themselves with a recent dog fight.

ANOTHER empty gnn has shot a young girl in New Jersey. She will probably die of the wound. The empty gun ranks second to the toy pistol as the most certain and deadly of weapons.

BOMBASTES, bold and burglarious, ex claims: "Watches are made to go!" The street thieves of London have adopted his motto, and are gathering in the watches of the worthy citizens in a way that contounds and astonishes the police courts.

EDITOR HALSTRAD declares that he did not pursue Senator Jones Into the pantry attached to the latter's mansion in the in-terest of Foster. The story was absurd to begin with. Editor Halstead would scorn to go into a pantry, foreign or domestic, in the interest of any other citizen.—Allania Constitution.

Our esteemed friend has evidently been misinformed. The attack on Jones was in

OUR PROPLE will be glad to learn that the Hon, L. P. Morton, our Minister to France, has worked out part of his salary. He has visited the studio of Bartholdi to drive the first of the botts which are hold together the parts of the huge figure of Liberty, designed to stand as a light-house in New York Harbor.

THIS ALTOGETHER too remarkable seaso still continues to hold out. Only the other day several residents of Chester County Pennsylvania, saw a meteor in broad daylight, and heard it explode. On the very same day, a gentleman found, near Charleston, S. C., the wild jessamine in bloom which flower is never expected to put in an appearance until February. A visitor at Liberty Hall, as a still more remarkable circumstance, reports Alexander H. Ste-phens almost in perfect health.

JOHN RANDOLPH, of Roanoke, had a few ideas about what we call the greed for office. He said in 1824:

omee. He said in 1821:

I most heartily concur, sir, in the censure which has been passed upon the greediness of office, which stands a stigma on the present generation. Men from whom we might expect, and from whom I did expect, better things, crowd the ante-chamber of the palace for every vacant office; nay, even before men are dead, their shoes are wanted for some bare-fo-ted office-seeker.

Mr. Randolph should return and take bird's-eye view of our present civil-service reform. He would probably be surprised to see how the bare-footed tramps have increased in the last fifty years.

Niko, a famous brigand, who recently carried off an Englishman engaged in farming near Salonica, and extorted a large ransom from him and the British Government, went on what is called an "extended European tour" with the proceeds. After visiting the different capitals he came to Athens, and was there about to engage in some kind of mercantile business when he was recognized and arrested. He is said to feel that his case is a very hard one. He had retired from brigandage, and was going to invest capital in some honest industry, when the police came down on him.—Evening Post.

This is persecution. If Greece had a Persecution of the process of the carried from brigandage and the carried from the police came down on him.—Evening Post.

This is persecution. If Greece had a Re publican form of government she would recognize the propriety of admitting thieves to the best society in case they experience a 300 Pieces Satins in all the latest shades. change of heart.

WE OBSERVE that the New York World has been studying up the question of marriages, especially their costs, and finds in this some explanation of the great social problem: "Why the men do not marry." For a handsome, but small wedding, the World makes the following estimate: Cards, $350; ushers' scarfs, $15; pins, $60; minister's fee, $200; sexton, $50; dresses for bridesmaids, $600; caterer, $1,000; music, $75; florist, $600; organist, $100; the et cet eras running the bill up to $3,492. Those are about our figures for "handsome, but small weddings." A little economy on the parof a newspaper man for about three or four weeks will enable him to consummate his happiness on the above scale.

ONE JOHN D. DEFREES is largely informing people, through the instrumental-ity of the "Majah," his printing foreman, that he has granted Mr. Arthur an interview, and that Mr. Arthur has been good enough to assure him that no change would ade at the Government Printing Office Mr. Defrees did not make any speech in his own favor, but he simply submitted the following extract from a letter he wrote in following extract from a letter he wrote in 1872, when he Greeleyized:

This is the most extravagant and corrupt Government that ever existed in this country. Great himself is so juil of whisky that he is stupiel and bloated, and the men who manage him are of the same sort.

But the whole rookery of unclean birds that infest the White House will be driven out next March and an honest man take their place. Yours, J. D. DEFREES.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer has a special from Washington that says :

from Washington that says:

The effort to have Gen. Longstreet put in the new Cabinet will fail. As one of President Arthur's friends said to-night: "If Longstreet gets into the Cabinet it will be without the knowledge of President Arthur." This would seem to settle it. The objection to Longstreet is that he was educated at West Point, and left the army to enter the Southern Confederacy. This makes him ineligible to an army or navy appointment, and, it is urgad, should keep him out of the Cabinet. Gen. Grant, as has been reported, has not urged Longstreet upon the President. He has, however, indersed his old friend, Gen. Beate, for the naval portfolio.

It is the private opinion of a great many.

It is the private opinion of a great many ple that Mr. Arthur is not in the habit of whispering his secrets in the cars of gentlemen who rush off with them to Washington correspondents. Hence we take the liberty to infer that some indiscreet friend supposed that the President slight possibly entertain some such idea and attiffed the correspondent accordingly. It is highly probable that Gen. Beale will be struck with lightning, but we don't believe for a moment that Mr. Arthur and Gen. Grant undertook to count out Langstreet on any such flimsy pretext.

Bound to Learn.

Hound to Learn.

There is a negro named Lewis Jourdan in Morgan County, Ga., who has taught himself Latin and Greek and some French, refusing all aid from teachers. He is also a good English scholar and mathematician, and is confident that he will be able to master several more languages before his death. In the same locality there is another phenomenon in the shape of an iddictionegro, who is a perfect natural mathematician. He can multiply and divide large numbers and calculate interest quicker than it can be done with pencil and paper.

A Call for Talented Patriots. Catoosa Courier.

We are heartily disgusted with the leaders of the party, and have no hope of success in the future until the management of the party is placed in the hands of other men—there must be revolution in the party. We must seek some good, taleased patriots to lead us or we shall never have victory.

A brief—not beef—extract in yesterday's paper relating to Messrs, Hatton and Burdette, of the Burlington Hackeye, was headed "A Call for Tramps." It should have been "A Call for Tramps," but, really, what is a newspaper lecturer but a tramp?

Call Out the Troops.

Augusta Cironicle.

The New York Heraid contends that either the Federal Government or the States must take supervision of the oyster beds and protect the bivalves from wasteful destruction, or they will soon be as scarce on our shores as on those of England and France.

In His Hat.

Athens Banner.

Your Uncle David Davis moved his big chair to the President's stand with him, and your Uncle Joe Brown took the ponderous President's old place with a smaller chair. Your Uncle David's biguess in his chair and your Uncle Joe is in his half.

Hoston Star.

When the girl who had encouraged a young man for about two years suddenly tells him that she can never be more than a sister to him he can for the first time see the freekles on her nose.

He Drew the Line.

Augusta Constitution.

Keely is a funny inventor. He was willing for the newspaper reporters to examine his motor, but he wouldn't allow them to hunt around to see if there was a man under the bed.

A Double Entendre. springfield Republican.
